

OHS PhD Program

Mission:

The primary objective is to train outstanding students to become leaders in academic research in the field of oral health science.

Academic Programs

- Master's – this one-year program is intended to prepare students to acquire skills and knowledge necessary for a competitive dental school application, a competitive application to a PhD training program, or employment in a research laboratory
- DDS/PhD – accepting individuals with a BS or MS to pursue dental education and a PhD in Oral Health Sciences (eligibility: US citizens and permanent residents)
- PhD – accepting individuals with a BS, MS and/or DDS or equivalent degree to pursue PhD training
- Future Dental Faculty PhD Track – accepting individuals who have been selected by their institution to be future dental faculty and will be fully funded by an organization or other scholarship to pursue PhD training
- MS/PhD (DSPP) – accepting individuals with a DDS whose intent is to pursue a combined dental specialty and doctoral degree in Oral Health Science

Oral Health Sciences Programs

Facts | Figures

- 1994 | PhD Program Founded
- 2021 | Master's Program Founded
- 49 | PhD Graduates in 2022-2023
- 20 | PhD Students in 2022-2023
- 5 | Masters Students in 2022-2023
- 2 | Year Average Time to PhD Candidacy
- Avg time to degree (years):
 - 5-6 | PhD
 - 6-7 | Specialty/PhD (MS/PhD)
 - 7-8 | DDS/PhD
 - 1 | Master's Program

Program Faculty:

- 35 | PhD Faculty
- 20 | Master's Faculty

Tissue Engineering and Regeneration Training Grant funded by National Institute for Dental and Craniofacial Research is in its 46th year
(PI: Dr. David Kohn and Dr. Jan Hu)

PhD Student Achievements

- 84% | Students are publishing
- 1.6 | Average publications per student in 2021-2022
- 9 | National meeting presentations

Alumni

What are OHS PhD graduates doing?

- 62% Faculty
- 19% Practice
- 11% Postdoc/Residency
- 4% Industry/Government/Business
- 4% Other

Program Directors

Yuji Mishina, PhD

*Professor of Dentistry
Director,
OHS PhD Program*

Elisabeta Karl, DDS, MS, PhD

*Director,
OHS Master's Program
Clinical Associate
Professor of Dentistry*

Visit our website at... www.dent.umich.edu/ohs